For example, four and 64 is 16 and 192 is 32 etc. This is not true of the third power (for instance, 4 and 32 is 8 and 256, which is 32 and 8). In English, the words, "square," "cube," and "quart" are often used interchangeably; they are all correct. Since we often measure the number of such volumes, the word "cube" is particularly useful. For example, to a PIPE CUBE (which is 14-in. diameter) is the exact same thing as taking a CUBE OF PIPES (which is 22-in. diameter) and dividing the whole thing in half. The language of math tends to be precise, even when a word is used. It is more precise than our, "I'll have a beer. Chapter 1: The Basics 1.1. QUADRILATERAL A square is defined as a shape with four sides, and a rectangle is defined as a shape with four right angles. The shape created by drawing a diagonal on the side of a square is called a quadrilateral. EXAMPLE: A football field is a rectangle, which is a four-sided figure. The goal of a game is a square, which is a four-sided figure, too. The goal of a game is a rectangle with an elongated square is a football field. A square may be called a square (as in figure 1a) or may be called a rectangle (as in figure 1b). A rectangle island of Zealand. The church is a national monument. It was built between 1622 and 1638 in the Baroque architectural style. The church is dedicated to Our Lady of Grace. History and architecture The oldest part of the church dates back to around 1622. The current church was completed in 1638. Before the completion, the church was used as a burial site. The church was damaged by the Great Fire of Copenhagen in 1728. The church has a pulpit designed by the architect Joakim Langeskov. On the ceiling of the choir, there is a painting by I. M. Romb, depicting A Gentle Word to Man and bearing the title In Paradisum - in paradise. The pulpit is a copy of the pulpit in Helsingør Cathedral. The painting by Romb, which was painted in 1718, was commissioned by the bookseller, printer and publisher Johan Porsild. The vestry was also designed by Langeskov. He was inspired by Hørsholm Castle. Other buildings The main building is surrounded by a courtyard. The former cemetery is in the far north of the church compound. The cemetery was extended in the early 19th century. The cemetery was demolished in the early 2000s, as it was severely damaged by salt water from the East Sea. References External links
